

Weekend at Moonlight head with leading Architectural historian Philip Drew.

One unique project...

Moonlight Head on the Great Ocean Road, South West Victoria has incredible panoramic ocean views from Cape Ottway Lighthouse to the Twelve Apostles, surrounded by pristine national parkland. The challenge was to design and build a development worthy of this breath taking location. There was only one architect we considered.

Designed by Australia's greatest architect...

Glen Murcutt has devoted his working life to defining architectural forms that fit into the Australian landscape and is Australia's only winner of the international Pritzker Prize for architecture. He, in association with Wendy Lewin, will design five residences and a small luxury resort for the site, of which the first residence is complete (one of only six Murcutt homes in Victoria). Moonlight Head is the biggest site Murcutt and Lewin have ever worked on and this will be the first resort Murcutt has ever designed. (He usually refuses large projects).

Presented by Philip Drew.

Australia's best known architectural historian, Philip Drew is the author of "Leaves of Iron – Glen Murcutt. Pioneer of an Australian Architectural Form" and "Touch this Earth Lightly: Glen Murcutt in His Own words". No architectural writer or critic has a more intimate understanding of Murcutt and his commitment to creating a new Australian architecture. Philip will be your guide for all of Saturday, presenting an authoritative morning lecture on Murcutt and the influences on his work, an overview of the Murcutt-Lewin project at Moonlight Head, and an afternoon site tour. On Saturday evening, Philip will host a superb dinner prepared by Moonlight Head resident chef Paul Ivelja.

It is going to be a very exciting weekend!
